PROFILE

Curious and ambitious by nature, always eager to learn and acquire new skills. As a very social person, not afraid to travel to remote places and establish new relationships. The very creative person that does not hesitate to think outside the box. Belief in innovation that is the driving force of any successful project and culture is very receptive to innovation which explains my most recent most experience. I live by two important key values, tolerance, and respect. Wishing to express and share them in my professional and personal life.
